

HIST 220

The American Woman

3 Credits

Community College of Baltimore County
Common Course Outline

Description

HIST 220 – The American Woman: Provides an in-dept study of the lives and experiences of the American woman from the 17th century to the present.

Pre-requisites: HIST 111 or HIST 112 or WMST 101 or consent of the instructor

Overall Course Objectives

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Analyze and think clearly about the nature and effects of gender differentiation in modern American history;
2. Assess the contributions of women to building this nation;
3. Compare and contrast gender roles of men and women of different classes, races, sexual orientations and national origins and their impact on American history;
4. Demonstrate an awareness of the contributions of women who are racial or ethnic minorities in America;
5. Discuss the historical forces that have shaped the sexual division of labor between men and women in America;
6. Identify some of the key events in women's struggles for equality;
7. Recognize the uses of feminism as an analytic tool for understanding American history;
8. Recognize some of the contributions of American women in the rest of the world;
9. Identify issues (both public and private) that have historically been important to women in general and American women in particular;
10. Analyze public policy issues that have historically been important to women;
11. Demonstrate effective oral, written, and critical thinking skills as they relate to the subject of the course; and
12. Utilize information from the internet in oral and written communication.

Major Topics

- I. Women in Colonial America
- II. Women in antebellum America
- III. Lives and experiences of native Americans, African Americans, and women of other ethnic origins
- IV. The history of race relations among women in the USA
- V. Perspective and contributions of the Progressives
- VI. Impact of urbanization, industrialization, and globalization
- VII. Abolition and suffrage

The Common Course Outline (CCO) determines the essential nature of each course.
For more information, see your professor's syllabus.

- VIII. The two world wars
- IX. The Great Depression
- X. The Civil Rights Movement
- XI. The Women's Rights Movement
- XII. Feminism
- XIII. The contemporary woman

Course Requirements

Grading will be determined by the individual faculty member, but shall include the following, at minimum:

- A mid-term and final exam, paper, or project
- Significant class participation
- An oral report or presentation
- At least one assignment utilizing the Internet

Written assignments and research projects: Students are required to use appropriate academic resources in their research and cite sources according to the style selected by their professor.

Other Course Information

This course is an elective that is part of the Women Studies Program

This course is cross listed with WMST 220

Date Revised: 10/17/2002

The Common Course Outline (CCO) determines the essential nature of each course.
For more information, see your professor's syllabus.